The origin of the name

The Piazza Hall takes its name from Piazza Cavour, which for centuries has been the beating heart of the city: a meeting place dear to the people of Rimini and centre of local political power, with the City Hall located in Palazzo Grampi. Rimini's long history emerges from the monuments that make up the Piazza - the Medieval municipal buildings, the Renaissance Pigna fountain, the eighteenth century Fish Market and the neoclassical facade of the Town Theatre, providing a backdrop to the magnificent bronze sculpture of Pope Paul V, which dominates the Piazza from its pedestal.
