The origin of the name

With its sinuous shape reflecting the architecture of Medieval times, the Pigna Fountain characterises Piazza Cavour. As symbol of abundance, the pine cone, replacing a sculpture of St. Paul, was placed on top of the fountain by the French in the turbulent Napoleonic times. When Leonardo da Vinci came to Rimini in 1502 with Cesare Borgia, he was fascinated by the sound of the running water from the various spouts, which later inspired him to invent a unique water organ. As in past centuries, the fountain is still a source of drinkable water for all.
