The origin of the name

The Castello Room takes its name from Castel Sismondo, the residence of the most important member of the Malatesta family, Sigismondo Pandolfo (1419-1468). A brilliant leader, he was the patron of many artists and scholars. He enlisted the help of the renowned Filippo Brunelleschi to transform the stronghold of his ancestors into a formidable fortified construction, capable of withstanding bombardments. The tower still bears a magnificent coat of arms with a crest depicting an elephant against a chequered background. Together with the colourful majolica frieze of roses on another tower, these symbols bear witness to the House of Malatesta, Lords of Rimini from the late 13th to the early 16th century.
